Proposed Telephone Co. Not To Organize.

At a meeting of the subscribers and those interested in forming a mutual telephone company east of Didsbury held Monday afternoon it was decided by a majority vote of one to take no further action towards forming the company.

This is somewhat unfortunate, as we understand that already 44 subscribers had signed and made their first payment.

A movement is now on foot to organize a company which will take in lines No. 2 and 6.

If this is accomplished it will make it more difficult for the lines further east to organize, as the cost of pin-space rental and other costs will bear heavier on the more distant lines.

At the close of the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the host and hostess for their hospitality.

Social Credit Meeting

A fourth mass meeting sponsored by the Didsbury Social Credit Study Group No. 1, with our Mayor Mr. Chambers in the chair was held on Monday night in the Opera House. The hall was filled to capacity with people who were eager to learn some more about social credit and our speaker Mr. H. J. Unwin held the people interested with his splendid lecture explaining the principles of social credit in detail and how social credit could be put in operation in our province and emphasized the point that it is up to the people to decide at the next election if they are determined to have social credit or to suffer some more.

Curling Notes.

A visiting rink from Calgary skipped by Mr. H. Black curled two games against rinks skipped by Messrs. J. McGhee and J. McCloy. The Calgary team got the best of it in both games.

Messrs. J. A. McGhee, T. Johnson and A. Brusso took part in the Scottish Right bonspiel held at Calgary on Friday, none of them being fortunate enough to get into the jewellery.

The "Hat and Cap" schedule which will probably be the last schedule of the season was drawn on Friday and is now well underway, the following rinks were chosen.

Bellamy, Studer, Berscht, Robertson Jim Caithness, McNaughton, Baines and T. Wyman

Friesen, Clarke, Tom Morris and H. M. Reiber

Heselson, Pitt, Moyle, G. Caithness Kirby, McGhee, Carleton, Nowak

Kaufman, Fisher, Wallace, Eckel McFarquhar, Julien, W. McCoy and W. Ranton

Ranton, Halton, W. G. Liesemer and E. Buhr

C. Reiber, McCloy, Adshead and Symington

Wordie, Brusso, R. Gooder and Booker

Weber, Johnson, Jack Caithness and Becker

W. Wyman, Sinclair, Halliday and B. Clarke

Woodlock, Ross, Fleury, Smith

Since the new skips have had charge at the curling rink, the curlers have come to life and interest in the competition which ended last week was kept at high pitch throughout.

In the play-off Woodlock defeated Weber in the one group, while MacFarquhar trimmed Wyman in the other. Woodlock and MacFarquhar staged a real battle in the final with MacFarquhar finally winning the verdict and the shirts by a 9-7 score. The rinks were: MacFarquhar (skip), J. W. Halton, W. G. Liesemer, D. K. Robertson, E. V. Woodlock (skip), T. Johnson, H. J. Friesen, R. Symington.

The same skips have again chosen new rinks, and another similar competition for prizes got under way Friday night.

The Major Problem

Surfeited and perplexed by the multitude of theories advanced as to the underlying and basic cause of this world economic depression, and equally surfeited and perplexed by the multitude of suggestions, ideas and plans advanced as the only means whereby the depression can be ended and a permanent cure effected, tens of thousands of people are becoming callous and skeptical of all economic doctors. More and more people are asking themselves whether this very large problem, vital to the welfare of every individual and to the very existence of the nation and the civilization of the world, is being approached from the right angle.

To an ever increasing extent people are asking whether the provision of old age pensions to prevent poverty and suffering in old age is the solution, or whether that solution is to be found in the creation of conditions whereby men and women can through their own efforts and by shift and saving make necessary provision themselves for their declining years. People are inquiring whether the provision of this and that Government maintained social service to provide for their needs,—and all provided for out of taxation,—is not merely attempting to cover up "sores" and "doctor" the patient, instead of making the patient well and capable of caring for himself.

People are thinking and asking whether it is not true that, just so long as taxes are piled upon taxes to provide for these social services, the very burden of those taxes is operating to make it impossible for them to take necessary care of themselves and families and make wise provision for their future.

Mankind must work, and produce, and save against the time when their working days are over. In a word, the business of the world must be carried on, and the more business that is transacted, the more it is produced and exchanged for other products, the better it is for all concerned. Consequently, the fewer restrictions imposed upon the carrying on of the world's business, the better. This great truth is sinking deeper into the minds of men.

Therefore, without further comment, we quote an editorial article appearing in one of Canada's most widely circulated magazines, a publication having no political party affiliations, but which discusses Canadian and world problems in a fair and impartial manner. Under the title appearing above, it says:

"These are the days in which we are regaled or surfeited with economic theories—some ancient and some modern, some untried and some exploded, some original and some borrowed, some thriving and some still-born, some springing like Minerva, full-armed from the head of Jupiter, others old and decrepit no longer fitted for service in a changed world, some that promise better social conditions and more enduring prosperity, and others that if followed would surely lead to anarchy and moral ruin. It may be profitable to consider some of these theories at another time. To-day it is more fitting that we should concern ourselves with a concrete problem—one that is growing to be more and more serious, and which must be solved if any of the economic theories now advanced can be rendered workable.

"The basic industry in Canada is agriculture. The basic product in agriculture is wheat. The basic need in the wheat industry is marketing. The basic condition of marketing is exchange values. The basic condition of exchange is open trade. That is lacking at the present time. For four years we have deliberately closed the door. We have thereby encouraged countries which might have exchanged goods with us to grow their own grain. Now we are shut out—some people say forever. True, of late there has been an attempt to undo the mischief, but there has been no apparent success. An accidental shortage of food for stock in the United States made it possible to dispose of some low-grade products, but the granaries are still filled with the best the country has produced. The figure has been given as 286,000,000 bushels. We do not say this is correct, but the exact figure is not essential. Should we sell 4,000,000 bushels a week from now till harvest we should yet have some in store. Some weeks we cannot hope for any such sale as that.

"It is beyond our wisdom to say which is better—to hang on to the surplus in the hope of better days, or to dump a lot on the market at greatly reduced prices in hope of clearing the way for next year's supply. That is the problem for Mr. McFarland, the government, and the farmers to settle.

"Yet it is a major problem. There is nothing to be gained by side-tracking it in discussing general economic theories. They need to be discussed without doubt but just now they are secondary. The first problem for Canada is the restoration of world trade. This means the re-writing of the tariff schedule. Is our government prepared to re-write it? Is Mr. Stevens prepared? Is the opposition?"

The Baby Airplane

Machine Produced In England Weighs Only 190 Pounds

We have had baby grand pianos, and baby automobiles, and have had jokes poked at the baby Austen, but now comes the baby airplane. A baby aero engine has been produced in England, capable of developing a hundred horsepower and weighing only 190 pounds. The engine is fitted in an "upside-down position, allowing the pilot a clear field of vision. Self-starters are fitted with it, so that the pilot climbing in, merely touches a button and away goes the baby machine like the starting of a motor car. Many of us may yet live to see these babes of the air thick as mid-gets in the summer time.

Crew Drilling Tunnel From Opposite Sides Met In Centre

A direct bull's-eye was scored by two tunnel excavation crews on the Colorado River aqueduct recently when they met in the centre of a mountain after having drilled from opposite side for 17 months.

The bore was 3.8 miles long, 17 feet in diameter and represents the first major section of tunnel to be completed on the project by which southern California municipalities seek to augment their water supply. Four shorter tunnels have been completed.—Christian Science Monitor.

HIS LUMBAGO HAS NOT COME BACK

Keeps Free Of It With Kruschen

There can be no doubt about the effectiveness of the remedy this man uses against lumbago. Read his letter:—

"About four years ago, I had a bad attack of lumbago. After being in hospital for two weeks taking heat treatment, I started taking Kruschen Salts. Since then, I am happy to say, I have not been troubled with lumbago. I shall still continue taking Kruschen to be sure the lumbago won't come back."—A. C. C.

Why is it that Kruschen is so effective in keeping lumbago at bay? Simply because it goes right down to the root of the trouble, and removes the cause, which is an impure bloodstream. The six salts in Kruschen keep the bloodstream pure and vigorous by promoting a clockwork regularity of all the organs of elimination.

French Court Clears Family Convicted As Spies During War

Tardy vindication of the memory of a French family, two of whom died in jail for allegedly spying and aiding the enemy in war time, was granted on Jan. 19 in a military court. A total of 28,000 francs in damages ($1,850) was awarded to surviving members of the family of Louis Moreau, who had been fighting for twenty years to clear their name.

Moreau and two of his sons were sentenced at the time to penal servitude in French Guiana, while his wife got a prison sentence for allegedly signalling to Germans with a bicycle lamp. Moreau and his wife died in jail. The two sons later were pardoned by a post-war premier as victims of "war hysteria."

The court decided that the light flashes seen at Moreau's house had not been proved to be signals, since the Moreaus did not know how to send code messages.

Chinese Warlords Impose "Friendship Tax" To Raise Money

Warlords of the province of Szechwan, in China, found when they discussed ways and means of filling their empty treasure chests that there was nothing left on which to impose new duties. Then one of them had a brainwave—why not a "friendship" tax? Now all civilians have been ordered to pay a new levy which will guarantee the friendship of the soldiery. They have been warned that if the "good feeling tax" is not paid cheerfully and promptly, "immunity from the enmity of the army cannot be promised."

HOW TO RELIEVE YOUR COLD ALMOST AT ONCE

Follow Simple Directions Here For Quick Relief

1. Take 2 Aspirin tablets.

2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here . . . prescribed by doctors as the quick, safe way.

Results are amazing. Ache and distress go immediately. Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"—almost instantly. Your cold is relieved "quick as you caught it!"

All you do is take Aspirin and drink plenty of water. Do this every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward . . . if throat is sore, the Aspirin gargle will ease it in as little as 2 minutes.

Ask your doctor about this. And be sure you get ASPIRIN when you buy. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

New Chemical Formula

Discovery May Help In Treating Nerve Disorders

Columbia University has announced discovery of the chemical formula of Vitamin B, an epochal step toward preservation of health.

B is the nerve vitamin, without which nerves go to pieces. The discovery gives hopes of more effective treatment of nerve disorders.

Until now Vitamin B has been available only from foodstuffs such as tomatoes, spinach, legumes, eggs, yeast, liver, kidney and other glandular tissues. Its extraction was difficult and it has not been obtained entirely pure.

Synthesis will produce the pure vitamin, and it is expected to do so in virtually unlimited quantities. The formula was discovered by Robert R. Williams of Columbia.

The atoms composing the vitamin are carbon, nitrogen, hydrogen, oxygen and sulphur. This fact has been known for a long time. The discovery is how to hook them together so that they will be Vitamin B.

Portugal Has Problem

No Room For 282 Convicts Sent Back From Colonies

Two hundred and eighty-two convicts—and nowhere to put them. This is the problem which is puzzling the prison authorities in Portugal. The convicts who have arrived in the country from Portuguese colonies, from which they have been sent as convicts from Portugal, can no longer remain in the colonies. Many hundreds are to return to their native land, in accordance with the provisions of the Colonial Act. The 282 who have arrived cannot be accommodated in Lisbon's prisons as these are already overcrowded. They are to be placed in "concentration camps." Many are criminals of the worst type.

The Overseas Daily Mail says P. C. Walter J. Taylor, who has just retired after 26 years' service in the Southampton police, is believed to be the man who fired the last shot in the Boer War—and, by mistake, injured a British corporal.

Government Proposes To Launch Comprehensive Program To Deal Effectively With Drouth Problem

Backed by the best information of experts of the department of agriculture, the Dominion government is preparing to launch a program early this spring which it hopes will deal effectively with the critical problem of drouth areas of the three prairie provinces. Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, outlined plans in the House of Commons.

The program will be administered by the department of agriculture as a solely federal undertaking. An advisory committee, Mr. Weir told the house, of successful ranchers, wheat farmers and business men, would be appointed to assist the department in conduct and development of the plans.

For four years department experts have been studying conditions which affect fully 10,000,000 acres in the three provinces. Figures submitted by the minister showed that in 1933 drouth affected 11,435,000 acres to such an extent that it produced less than five bushels of grain to the acre.

Plans the government will put in operation, it is claimed, will change the entire landscape in many sections of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba. The survey has been completed and all details worked out.

The kernel of the project will be demonstration areas selected in various sections of dried-out districts. Farmers of a dried-out township will be invited to co-operate. If they agree, and those who have worked on the plans say the settlers will be offered such terms that they will be glad to agree, then the administration of the township will be taken over and managed as one unit.

The farmers will form a committee which will have advice not only of agricultural experts but the best engineering advice the department can obtain. A township is 36 square miles. This is regarded as a sufficiently large area to counteract local conditions and serve as a demonstration to all adjacent townships.

Administration of the area will decide what shall be done. Blocks 25 acres in extent will be planted to trees at strategic points to provide shelter for livestock, hold snow and shelter ponds and lakes constructed for water storage. Approximately 7,000,000 seedlings will be available from forestry stations of Indian Head and Sutherland, Sask.

The Dominion will provide trees, grass seed, fodder where necessary, in developing mixed farming or ranches and other facilities. The farmers will provide labor and be entitled to all the revenue. It is believed by organized methods the farmers will be able to make much more than by individual efforts. Water storage will be provided on every farm.

Plans call for eight demonstration areas in Saskatchewan, two or three in Alberta and one or two in Manitoba. Farmers outside the demonstration areas will be assisted to improve their farms in a manner based on the experiences of the demonstration areas.

Preparation for this step has been going on for the last four years, Mr. Weir explained. In addition to seedlings, tons of carragana seed will be planted. This is a tree of the pea family growing about 15 feet high and forming effective wind breaks and hedges. Trees planted will be cottonwood, willow, poplar, spruce and jack pine.

What the department is relying on most to reclaim dried-out areas is crested wheat grass. This grass keeps alive with less moisture than any other form.

It ranks with Russian thistle, the weed that grows on land when everything has been burnt. For some years this type of grass has been developed and the seed will be available in considerable quantities to build up ranches.

More than 100 small dams will be built under the program and proposals to undertake much larger projects are under consideration.

"It is generally conceded that this area should be divided into three regions, one suitable for ranching, one suitable almost entirely for the growing of wheat, and the intermediate region lending itself to a mixture of the two," said Mr. Weir.

"It is proposed to select a number of fairly large areas in each of these regions for the purpose of demonstration and research. Because these areas are under the jurisdiction of the provinces, it will be necessary to receive the whole-hearted co-operation of the farmers within the areas selected, this co-operation, by agreement, to extend over a period of years."

Dressed Poultry Regulations

Details Of Amendments Respecting Grading And Marking

The recent amendments to the regulations respecting the grading and marking of dressed poultry consist of the substitution of a new section (No. 7) for the old one, and the addition of a new section (No. 16). Section 7 deals with the stencilling and marking of boxes containing poultry. It reads as follows: (1) All boxes containing poultry to which these regulations apply shall be clearly and legibly stencilled on the outside of at least one end in block letters not less than three-quarters of an inch in length so as to show correctly:

- In the left upper corner, the number of birds in the box. This mark may be omitted in the case of a box containing 12 birds, the recognized pack.
- In the left lower corner, "Tagged" if, and only if, all the birds in the box are tagged. In this corner may also be shown the gross weight of the package.
- In the right lower corner, the net weight.
- In the centre, the kind and sub-kind of poultry on the first line; the class and grade on the second line.
- In instances where the kind and sub-kind are partly designated by the same word, the sub-kind name shall be used.
- In the branding of turkeys, both kind and sub-kind shall be shown. The sub-kind may be indicated by the first letter or letters of the sub-kind.
- Stags and roosters must be branded as such.

(2) No person shall place on any such box any mark or design other than those required by this regulation, except such as may be authorized in any case by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

The other new regulation, which refers to the inspection, grading and marking of dressed poultry for export, has been added as section 16 as follows:

- No person shall either by himself, or through the agency of another person, ship dressed poultry for export from Canada unless the same has been inspected and certified by an inspector at point of shipment and is graded and packed and the containers marked in accordance with these regulations, and each individual bird marked with a tag bearing the class and grade as specified in these regulations.
- The Minister may from time to time prescribe the form, colour, and lettering of tags used to mark birds for export, and the place and method of attachment.
- Upon the end of the box stencilled in accordance with section 7, no mark or other designation shall appear except those required or allowed by this section.

How China Does It

To the bright officials of the Chinese ministry of railways goes the palm for inventing a system which puts a stop to argument with parent over the age of children. The Chinese in the past have followed the Canadian system of selling half-fare tickets for youngsters under a certain age. Now, after much trouble, children pay fare according to heights.

Protecting Food Products

New Insecticide Protects Food By Fumigating Process

Since the introduction of wax paper and cellophane considerable progress has been made in preventing deterioration and infestation of food products by insects subsequent to manufacture. Many manufacturers now fumigate their products after packing, and a new insecticide, which consists of one part ethylene oxide to nine parts carbon dioxide, is coming into use. The products packed ready for market are placed in a vault into which the required amount of fumigant is introduced. In this way food products, cereals, candies, and other commodities are rendered insect free at the time of shipment from the factory or mill. No odour is imparted to the materials. The only drawback to this treatment, according to officers of the Dominion Department of Agriculture who have had ample opportunity to test this gas thoroughly during the past two years, is the cost. However, with extended use, this objection will be obviated. The fumigant is non-poisonous to human beings, is non-inflammable, and may be used without injurious effects in the control of insects infesting various materials. It was first investigated and developed by research workers in agriculture.

Uncommon But Not Rare

When a Toronto man found himself two or three inches shorter than he had been, he reported to a hospital to see what was causing the shrinkage. It was found he was suffering from Paget's disease, an uncommon but not rare malady. The disease is characterized by deformities and compressions of the bones which result in loss of height. Many cases with a shortening of six to eight inches are on record.

Twice as many babies in the United States survive their first year, as compared with conditions 25 years ago.

1935 Hatchery Regulations

Only One Alteration Made From That Of 1934

When only a few chicks are to be raised, and time is not an important factor, natural methods may be used, but where chicks are to be raised commercially and time is an important factor, artificial methods are advised. For this reason, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has re-issued and brought up to date circular 76 which deals with the brooding and rearing of chicks.

With reference to the rearing of chicks under the hatchery regulations, breeders will note that, so far as the rules and regulations of the hatchery approval policy for the 1935 season are concerned, only one alteration has been made from those of 1934 through the addition of rule 13. This has been inserted to protect provinces which have asked for proclamation of the hatchery regulations and are hatching only from approved blood-tested flocks. The rule is as follows: No approved hatchery shall ship chicks into any province which has included blood-testing in its flock approval policy and where the hatchery regulations are in effect, except approved hatcheries using only eggs from blood-tested flocks.

Bachelors Wanted

The United States army announces it is seeking 33 bassoon, oboe and trombone players for army bands in Panama and Hawaii. Only bachelors need apply.

It is thought likely that the Arabs acquired the ancient art of paper making when they took captive some Chinese paper makers.

While news dispatches and photographs tell a fast-paced world of progress in building the British superliner Queen Mary and the Great French ship Normandie, other reports forecast a competition which would take away much of the importance and perhaps some of the bitterness of this subsidized battle for supremacy in shipbuilding. With the Graf Zeppelin showing profits on its South American trips, Germany is preparing to make a bid to keep its "A-deck" passengers by turning to the air lines.

From Berlin comes word of a proposed ocean airship "line" which will seek world-wide as well as Atlantic ocean trade. Work has already begun on a new Zeppelin terminal at Frankfurt-am-Main. It is on the Rhine Valley and closer to European centres than Friedrichshafen, the old port. Fast airplane service to all parts of Europe is planned. Another port of call is promised for Seville, Spain.

From Washington, a dispatch reports that Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous commander of the Graf, is in the capital to confer with government officials for temporary use of airship moorings at Lakehurst, Cape May and Miami. He is enthusiastic over the possibility of Washington as a trans-Atlantic air terminus. This last, in itself, is an interesting commentary on the shift of importance from New York to the nation's capital. In air travel, centres of interest rather than deep-water harbor facilities will be the important factor.

Thus Germany, finding her fast liners, Bremen and Europe, threatened by the two luxury vessels and already challenged by Italian craft, proposes to keep the cream of passenger, mail and express business by turning to the air. If the new airships can duplicate the performances of the Graf for fast safe crossings and profit, the project has possibilities of success. Other nations will then have to take to the air, too, if they wish to compete for the mythical "Blue Ribbon on the Atlantic," and water-borne ships will rip out staterooms to make cargo holds.—Christian Science Monitor.

Tree Planting In Alberta

Distributing Trees To Farmers Who Have Wood Lots

Tree planting in Alberta continues on an extensive scale, and more than 100,000 white spruce trees and some 8,100 green ash will be available for distribution in the spring from the provincial nurseries at Oliver, according to an announcement made by the forestry branch of the Alberta Department of Lands and Mines. These trees will be distributed on the plan adopted two years ago to farmers who have wood lots, or to schools, community centres, etc. Last year some 34,000 trees of various kinds were distributed from the nurseries to 228 different sources which included 183 farmers, 18 schools, 13 institutions, and 14 municipalities.

New Fruit Commissioner

Lieut.-Colonel Roy L. Wheeler, O.B.E., V.D., has been appointed Fruit Commissioner of the Dominion Department of Agriculture to fill the vacancy made by the death of Commissioner G. E. McIntosh in August, 1934. Since 1922 Colonel Wheeler has been Fruit Transportation Specialist for the Department and his work in that connection has given him a wide acquaintance and experience with fruit growers, shippers, and with the wholesale trade generally, as well as with transportation interests throughout Canada.

Busy For A Day

There is a railway station near Bisle in England, that is used only one day a year, but then it handles several thousand passengers. It is built on the lonely moors adjoining the shooting grounds of the National Rifle Association and used only during the annual one-day shoot for the king's prize.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

STUDY YOUR COMPOSITION

It is quite obvious that pictures of groups of people, or animals, such as the horses shown above, should be taken with the camera in a horizontal position, while arches, high waterfalls, etc., should be vertical.

Newspaper cameramen are sometimes sharply criticized by those who consider photography as an art, for various faults in composition, lighting, shadows, etc. These critics may be right but they do not stop to consider that the news cameraman must take his picture when he can get it and often on the run. It's the picture of an individual or action he is after and heaven help him if he returns to his city editor and says, "Sorry chief, but I didn't get that picture of the mayor being slugged. The sun was in the wrong position, the shadows terrible and the mayor was in an atrocious pose when he was struck." Ooh! Shudder to think of what would happen to that cameraman!

There is one point, however, we can all learn from the news cameraman and profit by it in taking more interesting pictures. It is this. Include only the principal subject in a picture. In other words, if you are taking a picture of an individual or a group focus the lens on the principal subject and forget about the sharpness of the background or the surrounding scenery, building, or whatever it may be, unless the background is of some importance and is part of the story.

If you are taking a landscape picture determine before you "shoot" the most attractive view and concentrate your focusing on that spot. Two pictures showing two well composed and attractive scenes are worth many snapshots with innumerable points of possible interest. Then there is the shape of the picture to consider. First of all this is controlled by the way the camera is held—vertically or horizontally.

A high waterfall for instance, or a single figure standing in a high doorway, obviously should be taken with the camera in a vertical position, while, on the other hand, a landscape, a herd of cattle or a scattered group of people should be snapped with the camera held horizontally.

Although the right camera position has been chosen, trimming may be advisable to cut out unattractive or unnecessary details which were not noticed in the finder when the picture was taken. This can be done by masking the film when it is printed to eliminate too much sky or objects at either side of the picture that may distract the attention from the view you had in mind at the time you took the picture. Occasionally, it is advisable to trim away the background altogether and mount the principal subject as a cut-out on the album page.

Circles, circles and panels are shapes which suit various types of subjects, circles making attractive frames for portraits. The size of the circle and its position with regard to the head must be left to individual taste, but where the head is not shown in full front view, more space should be left on the side toward which the face is turned.

Trimming will often enable a drastic change to be made in the composition of a picture. Trimming the print at top and bottom to make a long, narrow, horizontal panel is often very effective. If you are not quite satisfied with your print use four pieces of paper as a mask and you will readily see if trimming will make a great improvement. Try it. JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Correspondence.

To the Editor:

I extend my sincere sympathy to Mr. Wigglesworth in finding himself at such great odds in this little discussion, both in the number of opponents and in number and quality of constructive arguments put forth, but why whimper if you are not hurt?

I do not feel so badly about being accused of considering seriously the Aberhart bedtime fairy stories, especially since the entire legislature of this province has considered these fairy stories seriously enough to invite Mr. Aberhart to go to Edmonton again and proceed to formulate a plan of Social Credit for Alberta. The legislature, however, is merely trying to make a political football out of Mr. Aberhart and his fairy story, but they are nevertheless sitting up to take notice. I am sorry that Mr. Wigglesworth sees fit to belittle the efforts of such a master-mind as Major Douglas in formulating the Douglas Social Credit Principles, upon which the "Aberhart fairy stories" (to use his own words in a previous letter) are based. Mr. Aberhart is a clever and learned man. Perhaps these two outstanding men should first have consulted some of the intelligentsia in the Didsbury district. What?

Yes, sir, I do think we as individuals are partly to blame for the mess we are in, for several reasons. First, because we refused to do our own thinking and permitted financiers and industrialists to think for us and consequently electing politicians to our Federal government, who in turn make our laws with the interests of those mentioned above, uppermost in their minds. The interests of the financiers (who control most of our major industries) are obviously detrimental to the masses of the people. Secondly, because we are individualists and will not co-operate with our fellow-citizens for our own protection. Thirdly, because we refuse to consider the needs of our fellow-citizens and permit them to battle against forces which are beyond their power as individualists to combat.

Mr. Wigglesworth's arguments are, however, far-fetched. He says the individuals are to blame for the depression here in Canada, then he turns around and blames the banking system of the U.S.A. for the misery and poverty of the masses of people over there. The only reason our banks are sound is because they are given every measure of protection by the government, and because they are backed by the real and social credit of Canada, which rightly belongs to the PEOPLE.

Give our people the purchasing power and a just price for the real credit which they produce and which rightfully belongs to them through their association together (Social Credit), and they will meet their own obligations.

It fairly disturbs me when I see people trying to apply obsolete methods of reasoning to this modern day when machine-power has to such a great extent displaced man-power that it is absolutely impossible for a very large portion of our people to find employment under this system. According to that method of reasoning we will have to discard our labor-saving machinery and go back to the old walking-plow days in order that everybody will have a chance to earn their daily bread. Then we could all work a little harder and prosperity would come rolling down over us like the sweat of our brow. Let us take a timely warning and throw into discard that old slogan, "Everyone for himself and the devil take the hindmost," lest indeed he might overtake those who THINK they are foremost.

Yours for prosperity
through perspiration,
LLOYD HEHN

Spring is "just around the corner" and that reminds us that we should prepare for it. It is not too early to begin to clean up the Winter's accumulation of rubbish.

A fence should be built from the back of the drug store and the M. D. office, also from the back of the Bank of Montreal building to the south west corner of X L garage.

Why not fill up that mud hole in front of the hospital?

We have often wondered why the road to the cemetery has never been gravelled. It is a road that has to be used at all seasons and in bad weather as well as good.

Once more your observer would call attention to the possibilities of converting the C.P.R. lot into a beautiful park. Surely the R.R. Officials have no objection to the town improving that particular part of their right of way. What if they will not help, we are the ones that are going to enjoy it.

Week in the Legislature

By T. B. Windross

The week just past has witnessed important matters taking place in the Alberta Legislature, important resolutions being discussed and the new budget being presented.

The last-named measure being the one that awakens most interest in the minds of citizens, it is fitting to consider it first, and to the greatest extent.

It will be welcome news that no new taxation is to add to the already overburdened taxpayers of Alberta, except an increase of one cent a gallon on gasoline, which has been forecast for some weeks. The outstanding feature in the government's fiscal measure, and the one which is awakening a lot of interest in and out of the province, is the proposal of the provincial treasurer for reducing the debt-burden of the province by a new refunding scheme which appears to be practical and sufficiently simple to be workable.

It is a plan for refunding $131,000,000 of debt, by which the government hopes to save $2,000,000 annually. An estimated deficit of $699,479 is being budgeted for the fiscal year ending in March, 1936.

The new refunding plan suggested by Hon. J. R. Love provides that $80,000,000 of the provincial debt would be converted into 30-year serial debentures of equal annual instalments of principal and interest, bearing interest at 3½ per cent. The sinking fund provision would be eliminated under this plan, which is entirely new in Canadian government financing. The details of the plan are sure to be given careful study by the legislature during the next few days.

Another important matter that came before the house was a resolution, unanimously adopted by the house, urging on the federal government that the ban be placed against all unsuitable immigration into the country. The resolution was moved by Dr. W. A. Atkinson, Conservative, Edmonton, who pointed out that while the immigration policy of the Dominion was that of the Federal government, the Province had suffered by the admission of mentally-affected, morally-unsuited immigrants. The resolution, subscribed to by all parties, asked that the most careful selection of immigrants at the place of their origin be practiced in future.

At the suggestion of a resolution adopted by the house an invitation has been sent to William Aberhart of Calgary, widely known advocate of Social Credit, to come before a committee of the house and expound any plan for Social Credit that he has. Every assistance will be given Mr. Aberhart, if he comes, but there are rumors that he may not accept the invitation. It was pointed out by several speakers that the Calgary Social Credit advocate has always stated that he had no definite plan to offer, only a principle that he is convinced can be worked out.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are to stay in Alberta and conduct the provincial policing, according to indications in the budget, where, in the estimates, an appropriation of $225,000, the same sum as the year before, is set aside for that purpose. Of this sum, $175,000 is the annual payment to the Dominion government, and $50,000 additional for the transportation and maintenance of prisoners.

Debate on a resolution moved by L. A. Giroux, Liberal, Grouard, calling for the straightening-out of the Lesser Slave River, beside the diverting of the flood-waters of the West Prairie and Heart rivers into the Little Smoky River, occupied some time in the house. Mr. Giroux thought the cost of the work, which would save 50,000 acres of flooded land from abandonment, would not exceed $15,000. Hon. F. S. Grisdale adjourned the debate, being on the floor when the house rose at the close of the sitting.

It was stated by Mr. Grisdale that Dominion government engineers had examined the matter and made surveys of the flood areas and the cost of their prevention, and had estimated the cost of necessary work at $250,000.

RUGBY NOTES

The March meeting of the Rugby Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Youngs. Notwithstanding the very cold day, sixteen members and visitors answered the roll-call. This branch has decided to send a donation to the King's Cancer Fund. Mrs. George Youngs gave a short talk on the work of the League of Nations. The topic for the day, "Agriculture" was then taken up by the convener, Mrs. Greig, who handled her subject in a most interesting and efficient manner. A humorous recitation by Miss D. Farrant concluded an afternoon's program. "God Save the King" was sung and the hostess served lunch. Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Parker, with "Home Economics" for the topic under convener-ship of Mrs. August Krebs.

Doings Of Our Neighbors.

AT CARSTAIRS: While the fight was in progress on Tuesday night of last week some slickers removed the spare tire from Bob Simpson's truck, one off Dan Hays' car and a couple of others, loaded them in their own machine and lit out for Calgary. Fortunately the loss was discovered early and the police notified. As a result the miscreants and tires were picked up before they reached Calgary.

AT INNISFAIR: Just as we go to press we are in receipt of a telegram from Mr. G. W. West at Ottawa advising that the Dominion government will purchase the Canadian Bank of Commerce building at Innisfail for a post office. From "THE INNISFAIR PROVINCE" of last week.

Debate on the budget began on Monday and will likely continue for some days. It was the first budget of Hon. J. R. Love since he assumed the portfolio of provincial treasurer when the Reid government took office last July.

For Smaller Ships

Battery Of Diesel Engines Are Better Than Steam

The Diesel engine has been applied quite extensively to ships. A member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineering of London suggests that for ships of over ten thousand tons steam is best. For smaller ships he would change the present system and substitute a whole battery of small Diesel engines. He would install a hundred engines of seventy-five horsepower. An engine here and there could be cut in or cut off at will. They would consume no more fuel and would stop the vibration and make no more noise than "bees on a summer afternoon."—Halifax Chronicle.

No Argument

An amateur dramatic society in Australia was giving a show, an affair with royalty in it.

"Come," said the actor, who was playing the king, "let us go into the 'ouse."

There was a titter from the boxes. "He said 'ouse," an occupant remarked. The actor, overhearing, turned to the offender. "Yus, I said 'ouse—do you think a king would live in hapartments?"

(Editor's Note: Do you know what your handwriting tells about your character? And what your friends really are like? The author of these interesting articles will tell you things about yourself and your friends that will interest and surprise you. See the announcement following this article.)

I am going to devote my space this week to giving extracts from some of the interesting readings that have been mailed to readers in the past week. The problems they embrace will find a counterpart in the case of many of my readers and will, for that reason, prove particularly interesting and helpful.

J. S., Vancouver.—Your girl friend is very proud and sensitive. She is probably too solicitous of other people's opinions. She is loyal—intensely so to her own personal standards. And she will expect the same rigid code from you. She will be hard to live up to, because she is relentlessly opposed to human frailty. This is not because she is essentially harsh, or callous, or lacking in sympathy. But she has probably been brought up in an atmosphere of almost puritanical conduct. I am afraid that you are going to have a very difficult time convincing her that your attentions to the other girl were merely platonic and friendly. Just the same, I suggest that you be quite dignified about the matter. Perhaps, if you show her my letter to you, it will be of some help.

Mrs. A., Brandon.—Your trouble with your husband arises from your lack of understanding and patience. You are invariably ruled by your mind. Your head dictates your views. And so very often, it is necessary to show some of the milk of human kindness—and this comes from the heart. Do not be overbearing. Your husband is having a trying time, like so many other men to-day. He is undoubtedly doing his best to provide the things which you need. He is doing his best for you. And because he is unable to provide you with everything you would like, you suggest that he is unaggressive and lacking in ambition and push. Bear in mind that it is always easier to catch flies with sugar than with vinegar. Show your husband more sympathy and tolerance.

Miss C. W., Regina.—The young man whose writing you sent me is a procrastinator, he lacks driving power and accepts things as they are, without looking for or expecting any improvement. He is hardly the right type of man for an ambitious girl like you. Your doubts about him show that you have already thought along this line, and I suggest that you give up expecting the impossible. You are still young—only 19. There is lots of time for you to find a more suitable partner.

Miss G., Calgary.—I think you are troubling yourself unduly about your boy friend's feelings for you. He is not the demonstrative type. He is rather reserved, somewhat backward in showing his feelings. And because he is not for ever telling you that he loves you is no reason for jumping to the conclusion that he is getting cool towards you. He is straightforward and sincere, is inclined to reticence, a trifle clannish by nature. He does not make friends easily, but will be very loyal to the few he does make. Don't worry yourself, Miss G. He would not see you so often if he did not think a lot about you.

Would you like to know the real you. Would you like to find out what your friend is really like? Merely send a letter in your normal writing, and enclose specimens of your friends' writing, stating birthdate in each case. Send 10c coin for each specimen, and enclose with 3c stamped addressed envelope to: Lawrence Hibbert, Graphologist, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, Man. All letters are confidential, and letters will be answered as quickly as possible. Some delay is, however, unavoidable, due to the large number of letters that are coming in.

Sets New High Record

Creamery Butter Production In Alberta In 1934 Tops Previous Years

Creamery butter production in Alberta during 1934 set a new high record. According to a preliminary estimate, the province's creamery butter output is placed at 25,500,000 pounds compared with the previous peak of 23,750,000 pounds in 1933. The value of all dairy products during 1934, including home manufactured butter and cheese, milk, etc., is estimated at $14,300,000, and compared with $12,950,000 in 1933 shows a gain of almost a million and a half dollars.

Although still outstanding as a producer of beef cattle, Alberta has made rapid progress in dairying. In 1906 there were 42 creameries operating in the province producing nearly 2,000,000 pounds of butter. At that time there were 100,000 milch cows in the province. In 1933, the previous peak year, there were 96 creameries and 446,000 milch cows. During the past ten years the industry has reached a very high standard of production, through various systems of grading of cream and butter, and of herd testing.

Britain's New War 'Plane

Fighting Power Of Tailless Machine Superior To Any Others

Aviation experts who have witnessed demonstration flights of Great Britain's first tailless fighting plane, the Westland Pterodactyl V., tend to share the conviction of Sir Ernest Petter, chairman of the Westland works, that the new craft's fighting power will surpass that of any other military plane in the world. The odd-looking V-shaped machine not only mounts the usual synchronized machine guns firing forward through the propeller, but completely eliminates the "blind" zone which is caused by the afterpart of the fuselage and the tail of the ordinary airplane which greatly obstructs the observer-gunner's field of fire.

Has Another Use

Copal, a form of resin, is used for varnish making, but to the entomologist is has a different use, in that insects of past ages have frequently been found imbedded in the product in a perfect state of preservation.

Little Journeys In Science

PHOTOELECTRONS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

In 1887, a scientist called Hertz discovered that violet and ultra-violet light tended to cause an electric spark to start more readily. He also found that ultra-violet light causes the discharge of negatively charged bodies. Several years later it was observed that crystals of a mineral called fluorite not only became electrically charged by heat but also by exposure to sunlight or to the light from an electric arc, both of which are rich in ultra-violet light. Quartz becomes charged when exposed to sunlight, the edges of a quartz prism being alternately negative and positive. An insulated metal plate becomes highly charged when exposed to sunlight. Science has shown that every material is electrically sensitive to light, regardless of the state of that material. All substances give off electrons when exposed to a suitable source of light.

Ultra-violet light will cause solids, especially metals, to give off electrons. All such electrons which are ejected from any material by light are called photoelectrons. When light falls upon films made from the alkali metals, photoelectrons are ejected from these metallic films at high speed, and it is possible to measure their speed, the speed depending upon the kind of light which hits the films. Thus the blue light from the star Sirius will cause more powerful, though less numerous, electron ejections than full sunlight.

The distance which the light travels through space has nothing whatever to do with its effect when it strikes and ejects photoelectrons in photoelectric cells. Thus the light which travelled through space at the speed of 186,000 miles per second for 40 years before striking the negative pole of a photoelectric cell, to open Chicago's 1933 Century of Progress Exposition, was just as "strong" when it approached the telescope as when it left the star Arcturus 40 years before at the time of Chicago's 1893 Columbian Exposition. However, due to the great distance of Arcturus from the earth only a small fraction of the light which is radiated from that star at any instant 40 years earlier, ever reaches the earth.

Have Homing Instinct

A Kansas farmer drove his cows to a pasture twenty-five miles away. Next day the animals were back home having made the trip in thirty hours. The homing instinct which is so strong in pigeons and dogs also shows itself in cattle at times.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now returns to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Stone tells Crewe, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin. Stone and Crewe go to Seco to send a telegram to Gerald Keene. While at Seco an attempt is made to kill Stone, who proves more than a match for his enemies.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Peyoll Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dane Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory, which proves correct, and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the prospector's notebook. As they return to the ranch, they meet Dustin leaving the house, and he deliberately tries to ride down Stone.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Stone's half-raised hand came down till the back of his hand struck the crest of the withers. The gripping legs closed sharply behind the forward cincha and his body swung forward to place his weight where it belonged . . . above that tremendous fore-hand, the weight-carrier. The next moment, when the big black was within fifteen yards, the great Isabella horse launched himself, a living thunderbolt, against him.

The red dust swirled high above them and eddied down in a close-lying cloud and from the heart of that cloud came one sharp oath. The next moment Edith, sitting her half-crazy horse well to the side of the trail, saw . . .

She saw the great Isabella horse, bleeding at mouth and nostrils, pitching wildly as he slid to a halt. She saw Stone . . . Duro Stone, the amateur cow-puncher, who had learned his lore from Wild West fiction and who undoubtedly bought his apparel from a catalog, sitting that pitching horse like a centaur and she saw, and for one short moment did not believe her own eyes, Sam Dustin's big black lying on his side, every leg kicking wildly while his rider lay as still as death beneath him.

"Oh, my God!" she cried sharply, "you've killed him."

"I'm afraid not . . ." Stone pitched out of saddle. "Ride on down the trail," he said sharply. "Go at once."

That strange tone in his voice made her stare. Then she went on down the trail and so missed what took place.

Stone almost leaped at Dustin's prostrate figure. A quick jab of his spurred heel made the black struggle to his feet and Duro dragged the unconscious man from the dust of the trail.

Dustin's face was cut from brow to chin and a little trickle of thin blood oozed from the cut to mingle with the dust and sweat and grime of the encounter. He was breathing heavily in great gasps and as Stone drew him clear of the horse, his head fell inertly across Duro's arm. He laid him on his back along the path under a great mesquite bush and squatted by him.

"I'm sure sorry I didn't break your fool neck," he muttered. "I wonder if you've got anything in your poke that'll clear things up."

His lean hands made short work of Dustin's pockets. From the inner coat-pocket he pulled a narrow pocket-book that was filled with papers that he examined swiftly but carefully. At sight of one of the papers he gave a low whistle of surprise. Then he looked again at Dustin. There was no sign of returning consciousness and after a second glance, Stone returned to a careful reading of the paper.

"Huh. It's clear enough," he muttered. "It's old Joe Carr's note for eleven thousand dollars made out to John Pegram and by him transferred to Sam Dustin. Looks bad for Carr. Looks to me like Carr got his money from Pegram; Pegram got scared or needed money, so sold the note to Dustin; then this bird, workin' with Kane, finds gold on the Hour-glass and holds Carr's note for more than his share of the ranch. A pretty mess it looks to me. Dustin has sure got a strangle-hold on Carr. It looks to me as though one Gerald Keene is likely to find himself partner to Sam Dustin first thing he knows. Huh! I reckon it's time to draw cards. What else . . ."

His hands again explored Dustin's pockets and brought out a little chamois skin bag that he opened and decanted into his hand. A little pile of glittering schist fell into his palm and a few yellow points that there was no mistaking.

"Specimens of Kane's ore, of course," he muttered. . . . "Hello! What's this?"

It was a red-and-green package of tightly rolled cigarettes that he found in a small pocket next the skin. He considered them at length. Then he carefully extracted two and placing one in his own pocket he broke the other and rubbed the contents on his tongue. He shook his head in a puzzled way. Then he pulled out the butts that he had found by the fire some hours before and compared them. They were exactly alike.

Very quietly and without haste he thrust his hand back in Dustin's pockets and squatted on his heels till a slight movement told of the man's recovery. A moment later he sat up and rubbed a hand across his face; then his eyes fell on Stone and his face darkened under its blood and grime.

"I owe you one for this," he growled, struggling to his feet.

"That's all right," said Stone lightly. "I'm glad to do it. I saw that you wanted to show off before Edith so I helped you. But if I were you, before you try it again, I'd take a course in riding. You can get a cook or a horse-wrangler at some Dude Ranch to show you how to sit a horse. It only needs practice. I'd do it myself but I haven't got time. My time seems to be taken up with tryin' to break your damned neck instead of savin' it."

The utter scorn in his voice made Dustin wince. He flushed in silence and thrust a hand into his coat pocket. His grunt of satisfaction was expressive. His clothing had not been looted. He walked unsteadily to his horse that stood with drooping head and heaving flanks.

"Of course you know I'll pay you for this. If my cinch hadn't broken . . ."

That was true enough. The rear cinch had parted.

"A weak cinch is a sure sign of mental degeneracy," said Stone. "Any good text-book will tell you to be sure of your equipment before you try trick riding."

While Dustin was staring evilly at him, he swung into saddle and thrust his great Isabella horse into full stride and caught up with Edith as she neared the house. Crewe was standing on the porch and greeted them as they rode up to the house.

"D you all meet up with Dustin anywhere along the trail?" he asked as Stone took Edith's horse.

"Yeah. We met him all right," said Stone. "He tried to ride me down but his horse slipped I reckon . . ."

"Slipped nothing . . ." Edith laughed sharply. "That big black of his doesn't slip. The man tried to ride Duro down in the golpe de caballo. . . . He . . . He made a mistake. That's all."

Frank Crewe asked no questions. He knew what happens when a man makes a mistake in the golpe de caballo. There a man has but one chance.

"You'd better go in the house at once, Edith," he said heavily. "Joe wants to talk with you."

She glanced uncertainly at him and started for the house and as she went, Stone, seeing her eyes, could have sworn to a new light in them. The moment the door closed behind her, Crewe turned to Stone.

"Hell's broke loose at last," he said. "We know now exactly where that hound Dustin stands. Do you?"

"The last I saw of him he wasn't standin' at all," said Stone grimly. "He was lyin' in the senda with his horse on top of him. . . ."

"Yeah. And because of that, you'll get a bullet through your back some dark night if you're not careful. . . ."

"What did Dustin want?" asked Stone.

"He come to see Joe," said Crewe carefully. "He offered to settle the lawsuit over Soda Springs and he offered a lot of other things, too, provided . . ."

"Yeah. Well . . . Go on. What's the price? What's the man want?"

"Provided Edith will marry him," Crewe jerked out.

"Oh. I see . . . She ought to do a thing like that," said Stone scornfully. "Listen here, Crewe. I may be on a good trail. I don't know yet. Lend me the car. I've got to get to Seco on business for the ranch."

Crewe studied him for a moment and liked what he saw.

"Take the car," he said. "You'd better take this, too. . . ."

He slid belt and holster to Stone and stood watching him as he headed for the little garage behind the bunk-house.

An Odd Weather Map

Shows Eight Kinds Of Air Exist Over North America

A new kind of weather map, showing eight kinds of air over the United States, was presented to aviation leaders at the annual meeting of the institute of aeronautical sciences in New York.

The eight, discovery largely by aeroplane, are all the kinds that exist in North America. They contain, and split all the types of weather troubles known, including those on which forecasters go wrong. The map is a step in "air-mass" analysis the new system of forecasting being inaugurated by the U.S. Weather Bureau. It was developed by R. Irving Krick of the California Institute of Technology.

Little Helps For This Week

"Rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him." Psalm 37:7.

"Trust in Him at all times." Psalm 42:8.

Dost thou ask when comes His hour?

Then when it shall aid thee best, Trust His faithfulness and power, Trust in Him, and quiet rest.

I had found communion with God to consist not only in the silencing of the outward man, but in the silencing of every thought, and in the concentration of the soul and all its powers into a simple quiet watching and waiting for the food which the Heavenly Father might see fit to give or withhold. In no case could it be sent empty away, for if comfort, light or joy were withheld the act of humble waiting at the gate of heavenly wisdom could not but work patience in it, and thus render it by humility and obedience more "meet to be partaker of the inheritance of the saints in light," and also more blessed in itself.—M. A. Kelly.

"Rest in the Lord, wait patiently for Him." In Hebrew "be silent to God and let Him mould thee." Keep still, and he will mould thee to the right shape.—Martin Luther.

More than 1,000 Gideon Bibles were stolen from hotel bedrooms during 1934—a form of theft the Gideons doubtless expect, and count on to do some good.

English Woman Claims She Owns All Of Labrador

The proprietress of a London, Eng., cold cream shop—Mrs. M. Cowan—has just announced that she owns Labrador lock, stock and barrel. Already she has cast possessive eyes on North America's most northeasterly 120,000 square miles, and if her lawyers are right she won't take "no" for an answer.

And here's how she bases her claims:

Her family genealogical table asserts that she is one of 300 direct relatives of a fabulously wealthy Dutch trader, one Isaac de la Penha, whose death in 1700 was a real shock to no less a person than William of Orange, King of England. The king had every reason to feel badly, too, says Mrs. Cowan, for he owed his life to the rich merchant. It seems that monarch and merchant were sailing close to each other when the royal ship sprung a leak. De la Penha rescued the king, thereby avoiding what might have developed into a decidedly unpleasant piece of business.

As a purple-hued reward De la Penha got Labrador and a standing invitation to visit with his majesty when he was in England. At any rate that's Mrs. Cowan's story, and she is bound she will stick to it—as well as the present owners if she wins her case. Toronto Star Weekly.

281 Mutual Telephone Companies Organized

Defending the sale of sections of the rural system to mutual companies Hon George Hoadley, minister of telephones, declared in the Legislature Friday that 281 of these companies have been formed and fifty others are in process of organization.

Up to March 2, said the minister, 281 of these companies had been formed, taking over 7,027 miles of phone line and 11,583 miles of two wire circuit. Instead of serving 3,113 telephones when sold this plant was now serving 5,848, or a gain of 2,735.

The book value of the plant sold is $2,414,299, approximately 34 per cent of the rural capitalization. The selling price is $106,806, which is approximately five per cent of the book value.

Premier of Alberta Remains Silent on Date for Election

The provincial government is not prepared to make any announcement at the present time concerning the date of the Alberta elections.

Premier Reid stated this quite definitely Saturday when approached by a Herald reporter.

"Now that the government has appropriated $150,000 for election purposes, do you intend to make the date of the election public at this time," the premier was asked.

"You'll find everything that is available in a copy of the estimates," the premier replied politely.

The reporter replied that everything was included in the estimates but the date, and repeated the question.

The premier stated that he had nothing to say on the matter at the present time.—CALGARY HERALD

Bowden High Beats Locals 5-2

Slipping in four corners during the middle spasm, Bowden High school clinched the decision against Didsbury after being held on even terms for the first half of the game. Harris converted a perfect pass from J. Cunningham to start the scoring in the first stanza but matters were almost immediately evened up when Bellamy and Brusso combined on a pretty play that saw Bellamy beat Rollans for his team's first tally. Half of the second period had passed before Bowden got started on their scoring spree. Cunningham scored on Martin's pass. Cameron took an assist from Lock for number three. Lock came right back with another pass to Cameron to put the visitors three up and Cunningham ended the Bowden scoring on a sweet individual effort. Shantz scored the only goal of the third canto to make it 5-2 in favor of Bowden. The game was exceptionally clean with Brusso getting the only penalty.

Bowden—Rollans, Howard, Lock, Cunningham, Cameron, Martin, J. Cunningham, Harris, Runman, Henderson.

Didsbury—Holub, Buhr, Brusso, Bellamy, Cunningham, Caithness, Shantz, Clarke.
